Tom Jonas drew the map on page ii. The map on page 2 was created by Andy Wallace based on Henson, Founding A Wilderness Capital, 1965. John Huff Designs provided cover layouts. The Thumb Butte scene on the back cover and the sketch on page 31 were done by Bruce Fee. The Walker and Swilling sketches (pages 13 and 14 were drawn by Brett Blevins.
