“Clothing Styles in Early Prescott”

Presenter: Jen Bartos

Were the early settlers in Prescott concerned about their clothing fashions? Yes, they were! Jen Bartos will be sharing information and actual photographs of the clothing styles of the late 1860's-early 1870's, worn by well-known Prescottonian women and men. She will discuss how styles changed, and locals desire to follow those trends.

Jen Bartos, a 30+ year resident of Prescott, is a local business owner who has had a 40-year passion for antique clothing. She has a vast collection of women's antique periodicals and is a coordinator for the Living History program at Sharlot Hall Museum. Jen has also transcribed all of the Journal Miner newspaper articles from March, 1864 through September, 1870.

Prescott Corral News & Announcements

A Message from Our Sheriff

Hello, Corral Members and Happy August!

At our June meeting you learned from Bob Harner's presentation that old-fashioned patent medicines really didn't "cure all your ills!" (and may have caused a few more!)

Hope that members who won Rodeo tickets at our June meeting had a boot stompin' good time! If you attended the July meeting, you know that tickets were given away at that time for the AZ Cowboy Poets Gathering. The lucky winners have aisle seats in the front to enjoy the evening shows and they also received this year's poster. The Poets Gathering runs from Thursday, August 8 through Saturday, August 10. There are numerous daytime sessions that are free to the public.

If you haven't already made plans to attend our Western History Symposium, it's not too late. The event is Saturday, August 3rd, in the lower level of the Phippen Museum. There will be five presentations on a variety of Western topics. The one-hour programs will begin at 9:30, 10:30, 12:30, 1:30, and 2:30. The Scouts will offer a BBQ lunch for sale between 11:30-12:30. Not only is the Symposium free to the public, so is admission to the Phippen. Hope to see YOUR smiling face there!

The tooled belt and ram's head buckle that have been displayed during the last two meetings will be raffled at the August 1st meeting. Any Dodge Ram truck owners??

Happy Trails until we meet again-hopefully at the August 1st meeting!
